Overordnet: hvordan gikk gjennomføringen?

Very well.

Sammendrag av studentene sin emneevaluering (hovedpunkt):

Summary of an extensive feedback email from the course students:

The students describe the course as transformative, rekindling their initial passion for medicine and reinforcing its humanistic aspects.

They emphasize that medical education should foster independent thinking, practical application, and empathy rather than just theoretical knowledge.

The course is seen as a necessary continuation of PASKON, which focuses on patient-centered communication and care.

ELMED223 helps counteract the tendency for medical students to conform to rigid healthcare structures, preventing burnout and preserving creativity.

The students argue that fostering innovation and forward-thinking in medicine is essential to avoiding a cold, robotic healthcare system.

The course inspired a mindset shift, emphasizing problem-solving, collaboration, and maintaining core values in medical practice.

They strongly advocate for better marketing of the course, believing it fills a critical gap in medical education.

The students offer to actively support efforts to keep the course available, citing its profound impact on mental health and professional identity.

They conclude with a heartfelt appeal for ELMED223 to be preserved and expanded, as it cultivates more engaged, resilient, and visionary healthcare professionals.
